Hannah Schneeberger holds a degree in German literature and media studies from the University of Cologne. As a student, she worked as a student assistant at the Institute of North American History. Currently, she works for the Sommerblut Kulturfestival, a theater and performance festival that focuses on accessible art. Her main responsibilities are marketing and public relations. Since 2023, she has been holding the position of transformation manager for sustainable culture and has been a member of a collective of Cologne-based cultural actors who hope to establish sustainable practices throughout the city.
